

Contact:
Debby Spencer
WMTH Corporation
PO Box 51153
Bowling Green, KY 42102
Phone 270| 781-6858
Fax 270| 781 - 2949
spencerdebby@aol.com

trailsRus.com

For Immediate Release: May 10, 2006
Press Release

What can one do on One Tank of Gas?

Why they can attend the 400 mile Antiques, Collectibles and Stuff event across Kentucky! In four days, one can visit 60 communities, thousands of yard sales, discover terrific bargains in over 200 antique shops, enjoy great entertainment and have a lot of fun all on one tank of gas! * The event starts Thursday June 1st and goes through Sunday June 4th. Sales and events are planned all along the route from Paducah to Maysville and back again!

Check out our website at TrailsRus.com which includes a list of lodging, restaurants, antique shops, locations of multi-family and community-wide yard sales, special events and so much more!

Just outside of Paducah, the communities of Reidland, Sharpe and Palma. Aurora will be hosting a bluegrass festival, Cadiz antique shops will all be offering great sales and don't forget to stop at Patti's in Grand Rivers for a delicious dinner and enjoy the sidewalk sales of many of their shops downtown and the yard sales along the way. Even Carlisle County is getting on board this year and will be holding yard sales along Hwy 80 near Arlington.

Elkton is planning on opening up their entire square to yard sales and Hopkinsville has two large yard sales on each side of the county. And don't miss the Civil War Reenactments at Fairview where they will be celebrating Jefferson's Davis Birthday.

As always, Auburn (who was voted "most ready for visitors and one of the friendliest communities along the route" is a must stop. They will also be hosting their annual tractor and motor event for those who might just get a little weary of the shopping and need a break. And that just gets you as far as Bowling Green!

Glasgow will have some tremendous multi-family sales happening along the route and Edmonton will be setting up booths all around the Metcalfe County courthouse. And don't miss Neal's Chapel Cumberland

For Release 4pm CDT, May 10, 2006

Presbyterian Church and Greasy Creek Baptist Church which will offer sales, food and restroom facilities. Campbellsville will have a huge area for yard salers and vendors to set up and Lebanon will have a number of shops offering special sales and booth space at the Country Convenient Food Mart. Downtown Harrodsburg is always a treat and two "must stops" are Ward's Landing and the grounds at Ichthus where there are over 40 vendors in one location with food, fun and pony rides.

And check out Paris! The entire downtown area will be offering sidewalk sales and special bargains in all their shops. And be sure to stop at the antique store near Carlisle and at the Junque Man up the road. And don't miss Blue Licks Battlefield State Resort Park. Not only is this a great place to stay, they will have antiques, crafters and artisans set up as well as box lunches and barbecue. And last, or may be this might be first if you choose to start at the end or end at the start, you will come to Old Washington with numerous shops in historic buildings, sidewalk sales, yard sales and more! All on one tank of gas! ..Might take you another tank to get home with all your treasures and stuff you purchased. :) Call (270)781-6858 to order your free brochure and map highlighting each of the communities or visit our website at trailsrus.com.

Estimated on a car that holds 16 gallons and gets 25 miles to the gallon.*
